SAYS "LABOR TRUST" IS MOST EXACTING

Gov. Brown of Georgia Severely Arraigns Unions in His Farewell Message.

CAUSTIC CRITICISM IS SEQUEL TO STRIKES

Declares Members Are Victims of System Leading Up to Anarchy and Lynch-Law Methods.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 25.—A caustic arraignment of labor unions, in which it is charged that they form the "most widespread and aggressive" trust in America, is contained in the farewell message of Gov. Joseph M. Brown, presented to the Georgia legislature at its opening session here today.

Gov. Brown's criticism of organized labor is made in connection with his arraignment of the "trusts," which he declares are "the most widespread and aggressive" trust in America, and "the most widespread and aggressive" trust in America, and "the most widespread and aggressive" trust in America.

CAUCUS IS CHARGED TO CUT OUT "PIE"

House's Patronage Committee Would Retain Efficient Employees in Service.

OTHER BIG QUESTIONS UP TO VEX DEMOCRATS

Budget or No Budget, It Is Predicted, Will Cause a Huge Party Ruction.

"Do not destroy the efficiency of the House of Representatives by sacrificing the employees to the hunger for political pie," declared Representative Humphreys, Mississippi, in a speech before the House patronage committee, which delivered its conclusions to the democratic caucus behind closed doors late this afternoon.

It is a defiance to the many new democrats who came here demanding that the old employees of the Capitol building be turned out and a horde of political henchmen, eager to serve their country in any capacity involving a salary, be allowed to do the work.

CONCEALED "GUNS" IN HIGH DISFAVOR

Senators' Views on Remedy to Reach Weapon-Carrying in District Differ.

HEADS OF DISTRICT FOR DRASTIC STEPS

Considering Prohibitive Legislation Suggested by Maj. Sylvester in a Bill in 1909.

"Carrying concealed weapons or carrying weapons openly is one of the greatest incentives to crime that I know of," declared Senator Works of California, today when asked whether he would favor making the law against carrying concealed weapons in the District of Columbia more stringent.

"I don't care how far you go in making the law stringent," said Senator Works, "but I care how far you go in making the law so strict that it will be impossible to make a law prohibiting the sale of firearms to any person in the District unless that person had first obtained a permit from the District authorities to make such purchase."

permit no sale of deadly weapons, explosives or poisons except by a responsible agent, and then only to a responsible identified and bonded purchaser.

While it is true that these things could be purchased outside of the District and brought within the District for sale, the danger would be greatly lessened. As things are, the best people are at the mercy of the worst. Something should be done and done quickly.

Q STREET BRIDGE HAVING BAD LUCK

Another Delay Likely Because Bids Exceed Appropriation for Construction.

Another delay in starting work on the two-hundred-and-seventy-five-thousand-dollar bridge which is to span Rock creek, connecting Q street with Georgetown with Q street in Washington, is threatened. Amounts named in all of the bids, which were formally opened yesterday, are in excess of the appropriation available. It was stated today, and this may result in the scaling of the specifications and the preparation of a practically new set of plans. In such event there will be a delay of several months.

Engineer Commissioner Harding and Engineer of Bridges McComb are making a study today in regard to the matter. There is said to be some possibility of an adjustment which will not call for a change in the plans or necessitate advertising for new bids.

LOWEST BID SLIGHTLY IN EXCESS.

The Whiting Turner Construction Company of Baltimore submitted the lowest bid, which was slightly more than $100,000, therefore in excess of the appropriation available. Although Congress appropriated $275,000 for the bridge, the specifications call for an expenditure of only about $100,000 on the structure itself. The remainder of the appropriation will be used for defraying the cost of building the approaches and supplying the ornamental features.

The party will pass through the royal gorge and across the hanging bridge, above which rise walls more than a mile in height. No stop is scheduled before reaching the coast.

LAWMAKER DROPS DEAD

Dramatic Scene in French Chamber of Deputies When Aynard Succumbs.

PARIS, June 25.—A dramatic scene was caused in the chamber of deputies today by the sudden death of Deputy Edouard Aynard, a progressive republican representing Lyon. While chatting with friends and making his way toward the platform, where he was to deliver an important speech, he fainted, and died shortly afterward without recovering consciousness.

The doctors who were hurriedly called attributed his death to heart failure, due to overwork. He had sat up most of last night preparing his speech.

M. Aynard was born January 1, 1837. He was a member of the Bank of France, a member of the French Institute and a recognized authority on economic questions. He had been a deputy since 1889, and was deputy speaker of the chamber of deputies for several years.

The chamber adjourned its sitting as a mark of respect.

Keeler, and a paper on the "Utility and Attractiveness in Economic Reservoir Designs," by Alexander Potter, were on the program of the American Water Works Association's convention today.

WILSON TO CONFER PROSECUTOR SOUGHT TO SUCCEED McNAB

Expect to Meet Owen, Glass, Administration Hunts Attorney to Conduct California Criminal Cases.

EXCHANGE OF VIEWS MAY MEAN CHANGES

Representative Henry Is White House Visitor, But Refuses to State Position on Legislation.

President Wilson will have a conference this afternoon with Senator Owen, Representative Glass, Secretary McAdoo and other members of the American Bankers' Association on the currency bill that has been prepared and for the passage of which the President is clearing the tracks as rapidly as possible. The changes in the bill, the President having distinctly stated that the doors to amendments are not yet closed. In some circles the opinion prevails that the amendments that may be accepted by the President will alter the bill so it will hardly be recognizable.

There is a strong sentiment for a plan by which bond-secured circulation may eventually be retired. Representative Glass has long favored such a plan, and yielded his views on this point only after counsel with the President and other democratic leaders.

The newly prepared bill in no way touches the existing method of national currency circulation, simply providing for additional currency when needed. It is another strong element which favors a plan to have the United States issue additional currency to control the use by the banks and the business world, just as the extra currency is to be controlled by central board in Washington.

Commendation of the President's fight for currency legislation is reaching the White House fast. James R. Gray, editor and publisher of the Atlanta Journal, today visited the President to present resolutions just adopted by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, unanimously endorsing the spirit and purpose of the President's message for currency reform.

President Wilson's attitude now was said at the White House to be that the President had no intention of making a statement to the public on the currency legislation, but I cannot give any more definite information.

"But Mr. Henry," pressed the newspaper men, "can you clear the atmosphere as to what you think on the currency legislation?"

"I made a statement a week ago, and refer you to that. I indicated then that I am not opposed to currency and banking reform."

"Have you any views you are willing to make public today, Mr. Henry?"

"What you said a week ago has been forgotten and we would like to have your attitude at this time."

"I do not feel that anything further," asserted Mr. Henry, who was told that his position would be still misinterpreted, "is unwilling to make it clear at this time."

Want Bridge Commission to Meet.

Senator Swanson and Representative Carlin of Virginia called on the President today to ask him to call an early meeting of the Lincoln memorial bridge commission, of which the President is to be chairman, to begin the work of procuring designs and making surveys and estimates for a great bridge connecting the National Capital with the shore of the Potomac river.

The senators and the chairman of the House and Senate committees on public buildings and grounds. It is expected that the President will call the meeting at an early date.

Senators Simmons and Overman of North Carolina conferred with the President today to ask him to call an early meeting of the Lincoln memorial bridge commission, of which the President is to be chairman, to begin the work of procuring designs and making surveys and estimates for a great bridge connecting the National Capital with the shore of the Potomac river.
